Top picture shows the "Night Rider of the Sky"—special plane to be used in night flights by air mail pilots. The ship was designed and constructed by the Glenn L. Martin company of Cleveland, O., and has a minimum speed of 22 miles per hour—allowing it to land safely in a short field. This plane has all controls, etc., enclosed, and is built with many features making for stability which promise to be incorporated in commercial planes of the future. Below, route of the 30-hour transcontinental mail flyers with divisions of daylight and night flying schedules marked by the dotted line.

PALMER, SHISLER TO FACE THREE CHARGES IN LIQUOR CASES

Alderman and His Partner to be Examined Before Justice on September 4

NEW COMPLAINT ISSUED FOR CASE LOST IN THE COURTS

Additional Charge of Sale of Hooch on Aug. 15 is Made

INSTEAD of one charge of violating the liquor laws being made against Alderman Harry Palmer, three charges have been made and he and Clarence Shisler, his alleged partner in the operation of "The Alderman's Grocery," 119 Main street, will have their cases tried on September 4 and will be heard by Justice of the Peace Clarence Weber.

Mr. Weber was assigned the cases Monday afternoon by County Judge Bradley, after an affidavit of prejudice had been filed by F. B. Withrow, attorney for Palmer. Palmer's case was called shortly before the noon hour Monday.

Judge Bradley Sits Tight

Judge Bradley could not locate Mr. Weber at his office to call him in to hear the case and not wishing to have a reputation of the situation a month or so when the state temporarily suspended its efforts to prosecute Palmer on a liquor charge because jurisdiction had been lost, announced that he was going to sit in court through the noon hour or until Mr. Weber could be located and that the defendant, Palmer, also was to stay in court. Mr. Withrow, District Attorney Gordon and the judge then came to an agreement to adjourn until 2 p. m.

At 2 p. m. Justice Weber was in court and the cases turned over to him. He set September 4 as the day for the examination.

Federal Agent Schaller, who participated in the raid on "The Alderman's Grocery" in June, issued a new complaint charging Palmer with illegal possession of liquor. An examination on that charge September 4, will clear up the situation following the loss of jurisdiction in the case. Two counts are contained in the second complaint, sworn to by Federal Agents Nantstad and Hanchett. Palmer and Shisler are charged with illegal sale of intoxicating liquor to the agent on August 15 and with illegal possession of liquor on August 17, the day the hooch was found in Palmer's doehouse.

Clarence Shisler was not in court, it being explained to the court that his father was ill and that he was on the family farm. All three charges apply to Shisler as well as to Palmer.

STEAMER ON ROCKS

MANILA. — By The Associated Press. — The Eastern Oriental liner Chansha, British, carrying passengers and freight from Australia to Manila, has gone on the rocks at Tici bank near the Tawi Tawi islands of the Philippines, according to radio advices received here. The ship's condition is not known, but it is not believed to be dangerous. A distress signal was sent to help.

PLANES HOP OFF TODAY IN TEST OF TRANSCONTINENTAL AIR MAIL EXPRESS SERVICE

NEW YORK. — By The Associated Press. — Uncle Sam is today making his most audacious attempt at delivering transcontinental mail in thirty hours for west bound mail and twenty-eight hours for east bound.

From New York a plane will wing its way westward, bound for San Francisco. From San Francisco a machine will speed eastward for New York. The aircraft will pass one another in the center of the continent, if plans carry.

For five days the country will have this aerial express service. After that test Uncle Sam will decide whether daily mail plane service from Atlantic to Pacific is to be made permanent.

Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Reno are the principal cities at which the mail planes will alight to refuel or shift pilot, machine and cargo.

The only night flying will be between Chicago and Cheyenne. This piece of course will be blazed with electric lights, with incandescent buoys and powerful lighthouses to guide the pilots.

Postmaster Morgan announced that postage would be two cents an ounce or fraction thereof during the five days' test. Only letters specially addressed "via air mail" would be accepted, he said.

Appoint Night Flyers

OMAHA, Neb. — This is the Chicago to Cheyenne section of the first transcontinental night air mail service in the history of the world were announced this afternoon by J. V. Magee of the air mail service, Washington, D. C., and D. R. Colyer, superintendent of the central division of the air mail. The pilots and their route and schedule are as follows:

B. G. Page, Chicago to Omaha, arriving here at 11:45 Tuesday night. Page's home is in Chicago. Jack Kulzitz, Omaha to Cheyenne, leaving Omaha at 12 o'clock Tuesday night. Frank R. Yager, Cheyenne to Omaha, arriving here at 12:45 Chicago, leaving here at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. Yager's home is in Cheyenne. Kulzitz and Lewis reside in Omaha.

According to the announcement today, the night pilots will receive ten cents a mile per hour, which is double the pay of day pilots. This will make the pay for the Chicago to Omaha flight, 420 miles, at $42, and for the 445 mile trip to Cheyenne from Omaha at $44.50. This pay is in addition to the regular air pilot's annual salary of $2,000.

Leave New York at 11

NEW YORK. — Loaded with 24,000 special delivery letters, bearing complimentary stamps and weighing 875 pounds, and a few first edition afternoon newspapers, one of the five mail airplanes was ready Tuesday to inaugurate a five day test of the aerial express transcontinental mail service, the success of which will determine its permanence.

Regardless of weather conditions a plane will hop off daily from New York and San Francisco from now until Saturday. At 11 p. m. Pilot C. Eugene Johnson, in spite of the fact that late Monday night he suffered from a severe bronchial attack with high temperature, will take the first westward flight of the test, leaving from Hazelhurst field, L. I., on the first westward flight of the test. Johnson will pass an east-bound mail plane pilot in mid-continent, making a record.

Western Pilot On Way

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. — (By The Associated Press.) — Twenty-eight hour mail service between San Francisco and New York was inaugurated here when Burr M. Winslow, air mail service pilot, hopped off from Crissy field at 5:59 o'clock this morning in a de Havilland plane carrying 64 pounds of mail.

WOOD APPOINTEE TO PHILIPPINE POST A JAIL BIRD IS CLAIM

Charges Rodriguez Served Time for Abduction and Complicity in Murder of American

PRESS DEMANDS RESIGNATION OF MAN NAMED SENATE PRESIDENT

Predecessor in Office Wires Charges to Washington

MANILA. — By The Associated Press. — Political circles were jarred by a bombshell Tuesday afternoon when Manuel Quezon, who recently resigned as president of the Philippine senate, because of his differences with the American executive administration, announced he had cabled the secretary of war that Mayor Rodriguez of Manila, lately appointed to that post by Governor Wood, was an ex-convict from Bilibid prison.

The Herald issued an extra edition, demanding editorially that the governor general request Mayor Rodriguez's resignation.

Quezon charged that Mayor Rodriguez served one year for procuring the abduction of a woman by a band of handits. Rodriguez also was convicted, according to Quezon's cable, of being an accomplice to the murder of J. P. Berre of the 27th United States Infantry.

Rodriguez, formerly governor of the province of Rizal, became mayor of Manila July 28, succeeding Roman Fernandez, who resigned just before the cabinet and council of state resigned in a body. Rodriguez and Quezon have long been political opponents.

Although there had been a gradually widening split between the legislative leaders and Governor General Wood, the immediate cause of the resignations was the governor general's action in reinstating a secret service official who had been dismissed for alleged bribery but later exonerated. The cabinet members in resigning, charged the governor general with no ability "to intervene and control, even to the smallest details, our government, both insular and local, in utter disregard of the authority and responsibility of the department heads and other officials concerned."

Governor General Wood denied there was any basis for such charges and accused the leaders of "an organized and preconcerted attack... upon the authority of the governor general under the organic act and as the representative of the sovereign power of the United States."

MERCHANT MARINE TAKES ATTENTION OF THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON. — President Coolidge again Tuesday dispensed with the regular cabinet meeting, preferring to meet with the members of his official family individually so as to obtain direct information as to the problems of the various departments.

It was indicated that the president was giving considerable attention to the merchant marine question. Several reports have been laid before him by Chairman Farley of the shipping board and the executive requested additional information relative to the board's program.

SECRETARY WALLACE SEES CRISIS NEAR FOR U. S. FARMERS

Agriculture Department Chief Says Government Can't Stabilize Wheat Price

BANKRUPTCY FACING THOUSANDS OF WHEAT GROWERS HE SAYS

Trouble is Unfair Relation of Grain to Other Prices

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The economic situation at home and abroad, business and farm conditions and the government's policy in insuring prosperity were brought sharply into official focus in Washington on Monday.

The high points of the day were:

1. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said the government could do nothing to increase the price of the present wheat crop and admitted that thousands of wheat farmers will go bankrupt this year.

2. President Coolidge in conference received the views of Julius H. Barnes, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and other business men who urged a policy of limitation of government regulation of business and pledged their aid in helping to solve Europe's problems.

3. Secretary Mellon, returning from Europe, after conferring with the president, said that prosperity would come quickly to Europe if the Ruhr situation could be adjusted.

Government Can't Aid

In his statement discussing the wheat situation Secretary Wallace said the government could do nothing to stabilize wheat prices and admitted that the wheat farmer of the northwest and southwest would suffer severely because of the low price of his product and the high price of commodities he buys.

"The ruinously low price of wheat is not a new agricultural disease," he said. "The disease itself is the distorted relationship between prices of farm products and prices of other commodities. The sooner people engaged in commerce and industry frankly recognize the trouble the better it will be for all of us. The farmer could get along fairly well with present prices of what he has to sell if prices of what he must buy were down accordingly."

"Until a fair relationship is restored between agriculture and industry and commerce, agriculture will be upset and will have reason to complain."

Takes Up Price Fixing

"In the diversified farming region east of the Missouri river, wheat is but one of several crops and the trouble is not so serious. But in the spring wheat belt of the northwest and the winter wheat belt of the southwest, where wheat is the main crop, wheat growers are suffering severely. Thousands of wheat farmers will go bankrupt. Other thousands will be able to hold on only by the practice of the most grinding economy."

"Some argue that the government should fix a fair price. That could be done only by the government preparing to buy unlimited quantities at the price fixed."

"Others suggest that the government go into the market and buy 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and store it on the theory that taking off the market that quantity would send up the price to a fair figure."

"I am not hopeful of good results from either of these plans. How would the government dispose of the surplus accumulated? What effect would either action have on wheat acreage? What effect would it have on the acreage and price of other grains and of livestock? Would the same policy be adopted in case of ruinously low prices for other farm products?"

"Whether these acute situations might be relieved if the government should set up an agency with large authority to handle our surplus farm products in its discretion and provide it with simple funds, I do not know. I do not believe any one knows."

FLAG IS FLOWN INVERTED FROM THE CITY HALL

Anxious citizens hastened to the city hall from all directions Tuesday afternoon, the eagerness to help written large on their features. The reason for all the hurry was revealed when they dashed up to the office of M. R. Birnbaum, city clerk, offering any possible assistance.

"Assistance!" ejaculated the astonished city clerk. "What do you mean?"

"Why," the answer came, "the flag is flying upside down from the staff at the top of the city hall. That is the internationally recognized signal of distress."

OWSLEY TO EUROPE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, and American delegates to the inter-allied veterans' federation convention at Brussels, will be welcomed to Paris on their arrival August 26, by French government officials and Paris Legion members, according to word received at the legion national headquarters here. The party will visit the old battle front and will be received by President Millerand.

COLLAPSE OF WALL BRINGS DEATH TO BROOKLYN FIREMEN

Two Crushed Under Debris are Killed and Forty-seven Others are Injured

FATALITIES OCCUR AFTER FIRE IS BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

Fifty-foot Section of Wall Falls, Carrying Roof With it

NEW YORK. — By The Associated Press. — Two firemen were killed when the roof and one wall of New Plaza hall, located at Grand and Havemeyer streets in Brooklyn crashed during a spectacular fire Monday night according to a casualty list compiled by the police Tuesday. Forty-seven men, mostly firemen, were injured. First reports had put the number of dead at ten.

Raymond Farrell and James Sullivan, both members of the same engine company, were killed.

Many firemen were caught in the ruins and for hours rescue parties worked frantically in the debris, hampered by intense heat.

Buried Under Debris

The dead were buried beneath debris which crushed them in the collapse that came just as the fire was believed to have been under control.

The fire, of unknown origin, was in a fifty-year-old building that formerly housed a Masonic Temple. Of recent years it has housed two stores on its ground floor, while the second and third stories were given over to dance halls. Firemen found a stubborn blaze, and as the building was in the heart of a close packed tenement district, three additional fire alarms were rung in.

Working under the glare of a half dozen hastily erected arc lights, the fire-fighters apparently had the fire under control at two o'clock. The curious crowd had begun to disperse. A score of line-men were on the lower floor with hoses. Six hook and ladder men were taking hose rooftop by way of the fire escapes. Seven men were on the roof, chopping at a cornice.

Wall Crashes In

Without warning, a fifty-foot section of a wall crashed in. A heavy steel girder, recently installed as an additional roof support, fell with the crumbling wall, and carried its burden with it. The wall crushed most of the line-men on the ground floor under tons of debris. Those on the fire escapes were carried with the wall into the burning pit. Six of the men on the roof were catapulted into the very heart of the building. The scorched, half of a wooden beam which he had straddled in its fall it twisted its leverage and shot into space clear of the wreckage. He was rescued, only slightly hurt.

A fifth alarm brought additional firemen as rescue workers. Telephone calls summoned police reserves. The firemen tore at hot bricks to get to their comrades.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS TO RECEIVE JAIL SENTENCES--HUNT

Police Court Justice Sends Harmony, Minn., Man to City Lockup

"KEEP on the sidewalk when you are drunk and it will only cost you in the neighborhood of $7.50 in this court, but drive an automobile in that condition and you will sleep behind barred doors and pay a fine on top," is the advice Judge C. W. Hunt will be handing down in police court from now on.

Fred Collett, Harmony, Minn., was given a ten day jail sentence and $52.50 fine on Tuesday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor.

In default of payment of the fine of $50 and costs, Collett will be obliged to sit out another thirty days.

Anna Matulski was one of Collett's passengers in the wild ride about the city, police said. She also accompanied Collett before the court and pleaded a $7.50 fine for intoxication.

SHOOTS WOMAN AND SELF

UNITY, Wis. — Believed to have been temporarily insane, Mike Hodar late Monday shot and seriously injured Mrs. Kommers, wife of a section foreman at Rippling, southwest of here in Clark county, and then killed himself by sending five bullets into his head.

Reply to Curzon Communication Turned Over to British Embassy in Paris on Tuesday

PREMIER POINCARE UNYIELDING ON MAIN POINTS OF DISPUTE

Express Belief Note Will Avert Breach in the Entente

PARIS. — By The Associated Press. — The French government's reply to the recent note of Marquis Curzon, the British foreign secretary, on the reparations situation, was handed to the British embassy at 9 o'clock Tuesday.

The feeling in French official circles is that this note, indited by Premier Poincare, will prevent a rupture of the entente. Considerable confidence is expressed that the British cabinet will find it conciliatory and see in it a basis for continued discussion of the Ruhr occupation and the reparations problem generally.

There is no concealment of the fact that the reply is largely controversial, that Premier Poincare is unyielding on the outstanding features of the situation and that it is not expected Premier Baldwin will find the reply conclusive.

It is considered almost certain, however, that he will regard it as encouraging and will withhold any plans for separate action toward Germany until the points in dispute are further elucidated.

There is said to be a tendency to look more favorably on a new reparations conference among the allies and it is thought to be certain that Premier Poincare will see Prime Minister Baldwin when the latter returns from his vacation stay at Aix les Bains.

The French reply takes up fifty pages of a yellow book which will be issued Wednesday, together with a summary both in English and French.

WIFE RUNS OVER "OTHER WOMAN" IN CAR; ARRESTED

HARRISBURG, Ill. — Accused of deliberately running over Mrs. Hattie McGuire, wife of John McGuire, Mrs. Pat Neal was arrested at El Dorado Monday and placed in the county jail charged with assault with intent to murder. Mrs. Neal declared it was an accident.

It is said that gossip about Mrs. McGuire and Mrs. Neal's husband had caused ill feeling.

Mrs. Neal in her automobile ran over Mrs. McGuire while the latter was crossing the street, breaking three ribs, crushing her breast, and bruising her face and neck. She is also suffering severely from shock. Attending physicians stated her condition is serious.

DELLS ATTRACTING RECORD NUMBER OF TOURISTS IN 1923

Attendance this Year Expected to Double Record Crowd of Last Year

TOURIST BUSINESS AT KILBOURN
SHOWS REMARKABLE GROWTH

Nearly 200,000 Will Visit Dells
this Year is Belief

KILBOURN, Wis.—The scenic beauty of the Dells of Wisconsin is attracting the record crowd of its history this year with an estimate that the total attendance this season will reach nearly 200,000.

More than 100,000 people from all sections of the country viewed the Dells last season and with the crowds that have reached the popular Wisconsin resort so far it is believed that last year's record will nearly be doubled.

Visitors at the Dells have increased steadily in number during the last 20 years. Old time boat men on the river like to recount the development of the tourist business and its great growth.

At first men with row boats took two or three passengers to view the river's scenic wonders and received two or three dollars for a trip. Now big steamers carry hundreds and smaller launches take passengers right into the midst of all that is to be seen. The boats just fitting the narrow between the rock cliffs.

Between 500 and 600 tourists visit the Dells every day. On Sundays and holidays the attendance reaches 3,000 to 3,500 and on the Fourth of July and Labor day there are 5,000 people with the sole object of seeing the Dells.

What was once waste river bank property has become a gold mine to the whole countryside the value of which could not be matched with miles of fertile land.

George Crandall owns part of the Dells and leases the rest of the show places from the Wisconsin River Power company. He keeps the walks and bridges through the gulches in repair and makes it more comfortable for the tourists to view all.

Nothing in the Dells that may interest tourists has been overlooked. Indians camp on the heights, the children singing their native songs on request and a tip. Kilbourn and the entire surrounding country is filled with signs offering something for sale or rent and the word tourist appears on all sides. Few buildings without announcement of rooms or transients are within the confines of Kilbourn and many a former home has become a hotel.

Farmers of the neighborhood are also capitalizing on the tourist business. Bushels of apples stand at the roadside with the inevitable "for sale" sign.

Old residents admit that the popularity of the Dells could have grown to its present proportions only through the rapid rise in the number of automobiles in the country. Once a few outsiders came from day to day with horses. Now on holidays parking space is at a premium and crowds are so big going into the narrow canyons that people have trouble in getting out on account of the human congestion.

NEW DEVICE TO DOUBLE LIFE OF TIRES, IS CLAIM

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—That a hydraulic process to be used in tire manufacturing, invented by L. A. Laurson of this city, will revolutionize the tire industry was predicted at a meeting of the Kwanis club. Officials of the Gillette Rubber company stated that with the use of this new process, the length of life of tires would be doubled, and that tire time is not far distant when it will be possible for tire makers to guarantee their products for the life of the car equipped with them.

The total value of the Pennsylvania honey crop is now nearing $500,000 annually.

THRESHER TRACTORS HELD EXEMPT FROM TRUCK LICENSE FEE

Registration Under New Law
Slow; Only 2,000 Licensed
So Far

MADISON, Wis.—Registration of trucks and tractors in the secretary of state's office has been very slow. It was said Monday, only about 2,000 owners having registered under the new law, passed by the last session of the legislature.

The attorney general's office, in an opinion handed the secretary of state, finds that a tractor used on public highways only for hauling equipment for use in threshing and silo filling is exempt from paying of a license fee.

In a previous opinion it was held that such tractors were taxable, but closer inspection of the law in the opinion of R. M. Reiser, assistant attorney general, leads to the belief that the legislature in passing the law intended to be reasonable.

The tax for such tractor would be approximately $200 and the assistant attorney general in his opinion says the profits of threshing and silo filling are not enough to permit such payment to be made, and in his opinion he does not think the law intended to place a tractor used on the highways as specified in the commercial class.

The law holds that a tractor used exclusively for agricultural purposes is exempt from the tax.

GALESVILLE NOTES

Mrs. J. J. Whitechurch of Evanston, Ill., is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kellman. Martin Swenson returned home Wednesday from a business trip in Nebraska. He reports that they are having lots of rain in that state and crops are good.

There are many tourists enjoying the parks and scenery around Galesville each week. Mark McMillan, hotel proprietor at Galesville, took advantage of the auto bus line that runs from that city through to La Crosse on Wednesday and stopped at Galesville to enjoy the parks and scenery.

Ray Marsh of La Crosse spent Sunday with his folks.

T. G. Heister, a salesman for the Minnesota Binder company, is enjoying a month's vacation at home, before starting out on settlements.

Kellman was in La Crosse Tuesday on business at the La Crosse Clothing company.

An alleged bogus check writer by the name of George Roth and who had been working the past few months for Charles Breuninger came to town Saturday night and managed to pass out to the business men of Galesville $175.00 in checks which he had signed with Breuninger's name to and after making the round of business houses and being accommodated with the above cash he left for parts unknown.

Miss Edith Eastcott and Miss Inez Enghagen returned home Tuesday from their vacation trip.

An interesting meeting was enjoyed by a number of people at the Galesville public library Monday evening when an informal reading was given by several women from the book, "The Quaker Women." This is the story of a group of women who went into the Kentucky mountains to carry education to the people. A description of the primitive life of the people and many pathetic as well as amusing incidents are portrayed.

WILD ANIMALS TO THRILL AUDIENCES AT SPARKS CIRCUS

Lions, Tigers and Leopards to Stage Thrilling Exhibitions
in Big Tent

Manager Charles Sparks of the Sparks circus coming to La Crosse on Wednesday, August 29, is of the firm conviction that variety is not only the spice of life but of a modern circus as well, and has this season deviated from the straight and narrow circus traditions of the past by augmenting his two hours' program with a vast number of trained wild animal numbers. One thing that, according to newspaper reviews, impresses the public in watching the exhibitions given by this remarkable group of lions is the untamed fierceness of the animals. While yielding to the persistent efforts of their trainer, Steve Batty, to train them the tricks that primarily make their performances so interesting, there is abundant evidence that their native wildness has not been subdued and that they are still "kings of the forest," despite their enforced captivity. Cleverly as they have been trained, it would be quite unsafe to exhibit these lions on an open ring, and consequently they are presented in a great safety first arena in which they can be seen to advantage with absolutely no danger to the audience. The Sparks fighting lions are in worthy company, for half a score of other remarkably trained wild beasts are included in the new displays, chief of which are a group of royal Bengal tigers that have been trained to the limit of animal intelligence. Then there is a mixed group of Polar bears, great Dane dogs and Egyptian ponies—all recent importations from the world's foremost wild animal training quarters at Stellingen, Germany. Of course there are many other animal acts of a domestic nature intermingled with the wild animals. A group of South American hammas have been trained to bend obedience to the will and will be another feature of this famous circus in conjunction with the Captain Tiehor seals and sea lions, the Elbb county educated pigs, and a host of other animal acts. All will be seen in the stupendous street parade at 10:30 a. m. on circus day.

ic playgrounds of conservationists and government experts may find in them his economic salvation. At any rate, there are few farmers who will not find the question of a tree crop on that patch of poor land worth looking into. Every year the virgin forests are driven farther and farther away from the centers of use, and consequently every year timber within short-haul distance becomes correspondingly more valuable.

Both if Either

A RECENT press dispatch from Washington notes that there is some confusion in the capital about President Coolidge's principles. Some folks are insisting he is a sane progressive. Others assert he is a sane conservative. We hazard the suggestion that if either is right both are right. Isn't a sane progressive one whose ambition for change and improvement does not blind him to the merits of what has been done in the past? And isn't a sane conservative one whose regard for the past does not blind him to the necessity of change and improvement to meet modern conditions? And aren't they, essentially, identical states of mind?

Mr. Coolidge, in a notable statement of principles issued before he became president—it was when he made his brief inaugural address to the senate when he assumed his duties as vice president, if memory serves, said he believed in being "as revolutionary as science, and as reactionary as the multiplication table." It would be hard to evolve a figure of speech which would more picturesquely or more truly describe the attitude of sane progressivism, which accepts what has been proven sound by experience, but maintains an open mind for dealing with new problems in the light of new conditions.

Mr. Coolidge's statement of belief is about what most Americans not fanatical either way would accept as sound doctrine. The rub comes in interpreting it to apply to specific instances. We can't tell in advance what "as revolutionary as science" means to Mr. Coolidge in relation, for instance, to our foreign policy. It means something to every citizen, but not the same thing to each. More reassuring than a broad statement of principles which can be interpreted by everybody to suit his own individual slant on public affairs is the fact that in his college days and since Mr. Coolidge has made a specialty of the study of economics. It should give him an unusually good background for decisions as to policy which in the last analysis must hinge upon the economic interests of the nation.

The Harmless Little Thing

By Mary Douglas

"I hate you!" cried Sally West. She picked up the answer book and flung it wildly across the room. It hit the blackboard and sprawled helplessly on the last small, prim school desk.

"It's a judgment," Sally choked. "I always loathed arithmetic, and now I have to teach it!"

No one answered her. Simply because she was addressing the mute green map of Russia and the pointer with the rubber tip and a long row of empty school seats with upright priggish backs.

She sat staring straight before her with a crooked smile on her lips, because she would have liked to cry very much. She knew she would have to keep on teaching school until she was a very old lady with a few white hairs and an uncertain tooth—and no one needed to tell her.

In sudden desperation she opened her school desk and drew out a metamorphosed mirror—a mirror at the bottom of a taffeta bag surrounded with pink rosebuds and silver lace and an elusive scent of heliotrope that had no place in a proper school desk.

Her hair was still brown, although a large patch showed white from the chalk; her eyes were still gray, rain-gray, and unbelievably candid, and her teeth were quite firm and white in the little round mirror.

Sally smuggled the mirror away behind ruled paper and a row of blue pencils as she heard footsteps along the corridor.

"Oh, here you are, Sally West! I've been looking all over for you!" Mathilde was rose-cheeked and laughing; twin dimples showed at the corners of her mouth. She knew very well she was pretty, and never for one moment could she forget it.

"Billy Davis is down stairs. Come all the way from New York to see me, and you've got to go down and take charge of him! Yes, you! No one—not that cat of a Miss White nor that silly kindergarten teacher is to get a look-in at him. Talk with him, walk with him, but never on moment let him out of your sight!"

"But what can I talk about?" Sally begged.

Mathilde looked at her with satisfaction. Sally was unassuming enough to suit even her jealous eye. Sally in gray with a bright red expression and a smear of lipstick on her third finger and a pair of patched shoes. Oh, Sally would do very well!

"But what shall I talk about?" Sally begged again.

"Talk about—me!" Mathilde commanded and disappeared to take the obnoxious study-hour with a complacent little smile.

Sally's knees knocked together as she went down the stairs. A young man was sitting in the stiff school drawing room.

"Are you," asked Sally timidly, "Billy Davis?"

Mr. William Thaddeus Davis rose to his feet and with perfect ease, his hand swallowed Sally's in a stained one and he assented to her question with a glint of humor in his brown eyes that went straight to her heart.

She looked at him very thoroughly at his brown smooth hair and his clean young mouth and she thought of Artagan and David Copperfield, who were her favorite heroes.

"So," he said with a twinkle of a laugh in his voice, "you're to entertain me for one hour and ten minutes—until Mathilde comes back?"

Sally looked terrified.

"Oh, no, I'm to take care of you! So that you don't fall into the clutches of any one at all, at least."

She stopped, unaware of how becoming a scarlet blush was to a white little face.

"For one hour and ten minutes let's paint the town red!"

Sally's heart leaped.

"Get on your hat and your muffler and we'll do it together, little Miss Sally!"

But when Sally went to put on her last year's coat and the hat she had made herself "catty Miss White," and the "silly kindergarten teacher" were waiting for her.

"You are," said Miss White in a whisper, "to wear my beaver coat! Yes, you must!"

"And my brown velvet hat with the gold ribbon—I won't take no!" from the teacher of kindergarten.

"And my brown suede slippers and stockings," said the geography assistant, who was caught up in the general infection.

That was why ten minutes later when Sally joined William Thaddeus Davis he jumped to his feet and gave a low whistle.

"I thought," he said gravely "when I first saw you you were one of those wood-drays wandered by mistake into a boarding school, but now I'm sure you're a Godea!"

There was something strangely exhilarating in walking down a hill street beside Billy Davis. Perhaps it was the winey air, or the sun on old Dutch bricks, or perhaps it was his voice with that teasing note in it and the way his brown eyes had to meet hers—so often.

They stood still before a florist's window and Sally had to keep him from buying an armful of pink roses for her, but she found a great bunch of violets tucked into her coat before she could stop him.

They stopped before an antique shop and put together a very charming room with an open fireplace and ivory woodwork and chintz of delectable rosininess that was no more rosy than Sally's cheeks now.

with orange shaded lights 'way off in a corner of the Dutch Inn. Sally sank down in her chair with just a perceptible sigh. After all, it was over—and there was tomorrow—and all the tomorrows—and she was afraid she was not going to forget this afternoon and Billy Davis.

"Tired?" he asked.

"It was rather a silent dinner. The food was the very best the Dutch Inn could afford, and Billy ordered with great care; but he, too, had lost his appetite."

"Look here," he said suddenly, "we've got to straighten this out."

"You have," said he irrelevantly, "the kind of lasses that poets talk about."

She caught her breath when she looked into his eyes.

"I suppose you think that I'm Mathilde's what-do-you-call-it 'sister'?" Well, I'm not. Never was. I boarded with her mother, and I stopped off here so that I could send a report to her mother that Mathilde was behaving herself and holding down her job. Now, do you see?"

"But, then why—why wouldn't she let you meet any?"

"She let me meet you! She said you were shy and not used to men and—"

"And?" Sally said. "Tell me what that 'and' is."

"And a harmless little thing," said Sally wistfully, "that's just what I am." He could see nothing but the crown of her hat, he could scarcely hear the whisper of her voice.

He went on, "And that's what frightens me—almost. Do you think, Sally, do you think I came up next week-end that we could walk together and talk together and dine together?"

"A queer hush obscured his voice."

Sally felt a delicious panic. She had never heard that note before in a man's voice. But she knew what it meant.

And as they left the dining room of the Dutch Inn, Miss White and the kindergarten teacher from an obscure corner smiled across at each other knowingly, as Miss White remarked: "And we always thought she was such a harmless little thing!"

RIVER IS TOO LOW; WINONA CONSIDERS CLOSING BATHHOUSE

The almost unprecedented low stage of the Mississippi river, combined with the increasing sluggishness of the north channel at this point, has produced a stagnant condition of the water at the Winona public bathing beach at Lutescent Island which has caused the closing of the beach.

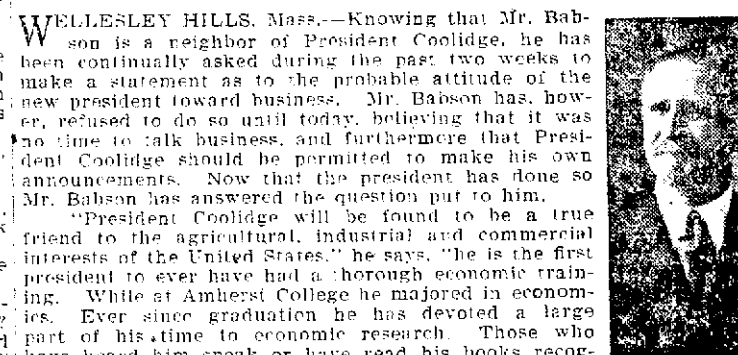

The river on Monday registered one-tenth of a foot above the standard low water mark at Winona. No lower stage than that has been experienced at this season of the year for almost half a century, according to official government records.

"The north channel of the river has been practically closed as a result of government dredging operations in the main channel near the head of Lutescent Island," Mr. Kratz said.

"As a result of accumulations of sand at the head of the island, little if any water can flow through the north channel except at much higher stages of the river than we have at present. The condition of the water at the public beach has not been entirely satisfactory at any time this season. At times the north channel has been open and there has been a current, but too much of the time the channel has been sluggish and water at the beach has tended toward stagnation."

Mr. Kratz revealed officially that the board has for some time had under consideration the abandonment of the beach at its present location and its transfer to the main channel at the south side of the island, opposite its present location.

Young oysters enjoy but forty-eight hours of freedom as moving creatures; then they become attached to a rock or other projection and settle down for life.

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Knowing that Mr. Babson is a neighbor of President Coolidge, he has been continually asked during the past two weeks to make a statement as to the probable attitude of the new president toward business. Mr. Babson has, however, refused to do so until today, believing that it was no time to talk business, and furthermore that President Coolidge should be permitted to make his own announcements. Now that the president has done so Mr. Babson has answered the question put to him.

"President Coolidge will be found to be a true friend to the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of the United States," he says. "He is the first president to ever have had a thorough economic training. While at Amherst College he majored in economics. Ever since graduation he has devoted a large part of his time to economic research. Those who have heard him speak or have read his books recognize the thorough ground work which he has along economic lines. The country is very fortunate to have a president who possesses this background. Other presidents may have possessed certain qualities which President Coolidge lacks, but none have equalled him in judgment and ability to handle the great economic agricultural, industrial and commercial problems today facing our country."

"Manufacturers may feel very safe with President Coolidge, owing to his training and environment. William M. Butler, whose name has been so constantly in the papers the past two weeks, is the head of one great group of Butler cotton mills in New England. These mills are located in New Bedford, North Adams and elsewhere and employ about 5,000 operatives. Mr. Butler is also president of the Boston and Worcester street railway, a high-speed, double track, electric line operating between Boston and Worcester, which is the most successful interurban line in New England. Mr. Butler combines a legal training with a practical business experience, and from him President Coolidge has absorbed a tremendous amount of industrial experience. President Coolidge's closest personal friend is Mr. Frank Stearns, the head of R. H. Stearns and Company, one of the largest department stores of New England. Mr. Stearns is a merchant who not only thoroughly understands the commercial world, but purchases a good deal from Europe. Most of our presidents have been trained in legal or political life without being thrown into contact much with practical business men. President Coolidge has continually been in an industrial, commercial and agricultural environment."

"On the other hand," continued Mr. Babson, "President Coolidge also understands the problems of the masses. He himself was born poor, has always been poor and is poor. His father was born a Vermont farmer and is one yet. President Coolidge was working in the hay field the day before he became president of the United States. The last time I talked with him he was especially troubled with the condition of the western farmer. Our conversation covered a broad field but he continually came back to the problem of the farmer and said, 'We must do something for the western farmer. What is the sanest and best thing we can do?' No one better realizes than he that agriculture is the basis of American prosperity and that with thirty-three million people dependent upon agriculture for their income we must have prosperity in the west before we can have it in the east."

The home life of the new president was illustrated by the news item which appeared in the papers on the eventful morning of Friday, August 2. The Associated Press dispatch read: "Mr. Coolidge came down stairs in his slippers. Entered his father's sitting room, lit the lamp, and read the telegram telling him that he was president of the United States." Those simple words, "slippers," "sitting room," "lit the lamp," tell the whole story. Business has nothing to fear from the man with that environment and with such friends. Moreover, best of all, he is grounded on those fundamentals of religion which put the church and the home before even agriculture, labor, commerce, or anything else.

This means that the agricultural and business interests may feel safe regarding the White House. Regardless of what selfish politicians may attempt to do in congress, there will be a sane man at the wheel. Uneconomical or unjust legislation will only be passed by riding over President Coolidge's veto. He plans to help the farmer; but will not permit the Esch-Cummings Transportation act to be repealed or crippled. He will do something for the veterans, but will not permit the passage of a bonus bill which will be harmful to the nation as a whole. He will stand for strengthening the Federal Reserve Board, the Railroad Labor Board, the Federal Tariff Commission, and other bodies working along sound economic lines, but may be expected to frown upon an unnecessary coal shortage or an attempt by organized labor to hold up the country or upon any legislation which endeavors to make water run up hill.

"For these reasons there has been a greater confidence among American business men the past week than current figures indicate. Although the Babsonchart is nine per cent below normal, this decline is largely due to conditions in Europe and to fears of foreign banks and foreign business men, who do not know President Coolidge. Furthermore, while we have been busy thinking during the past three weeks only of our presidents, great events have been taking place in Europe. The newspapers have been unable to give this European news much space. I refer to the increase in the German bank rate to thirty per cent and certain other radical changes. These changes have caused the Babsonchart to decline and have influenced our domestic stock and commodity markets. When, however, these Europeans understand President Coolidge, they should resume the buying of commodities and securities with a faith equal to that being shown by the financial and business interests of our own country."

FOREST EXPERIMENT STATION LOCATED BY U. S. AT ST. PAUL

Reforestation of Upper Section of Michigan Will be First Task Before New Project

ST. PAUL.—By The Associated Press.—Formal announcement was made Monday that the Lake States Forest Experiment Station, the new project in forestry research work established by the forest service of the United States department of agriculture, is to be located in St. Paul, in cooperation with the Minnesota agricultural college.

This announcement, which was received here from Washington, confirmed previous unofficial reports, and declared the station would be in charge of Dr. Raphael Zon, for many years connected with the forestry service.

"It is the plan of the Department of Agriculture to have the Forest Experiment Station do for forestry what agricultural experiment stations do for farming," the announcement says. "To grow timber crops on idle lands unfit for agriculture and to perpetuate the hardwood lumber supply upon which the great furniture and woodworking industries of Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin depend, are the primary objects of the Lake States Station."

"Dr. Zon of the Forest Service, who is to be the director of the new station, enjoys an international reputation as a forester and has been identified with experiment stations for the past 22 years. Moreover, Dr. Zon happens to have had a particularly wide knowledge of forestry in the Great Lakes States."

"One of the main purposes of the new Forest Experiment Station, which will be regional in character and which will devote its efforts to the problems of the Lake States as a whole, will be the correlation of forest research and related interests and activities so that the maximum results may be accomplished without wasteful duplication."

"As one of the means to bring about such a correlation, the Forest Service plans to organize a research council in the Lake States, which will consist of representatives of the State Departments of Forestry, Forest Schools, Agricultural Colleges, as well as representatives of the furniture and wood-using industries in the Lake States region."

"It is planned to have the council act in an advisory capacity for the Lake States Experiment Station in suggesting problems that stand in need of solution, and in suggesting localities where studies should be made. It will also act as a clearing house for all forest investigations that may be conducted in the region, so that if a particularly problem is already being studied at a forest school or by some State forest department, no attempt will be made to duplicate that study. On the contrary, such studies by the existing agencies will be encouraged, and the time and resources of the Federal Experiment Station devoted to other problems."

"Reforestation in the Upper Peninsula and the Northern Part of the Lower Peninsula of Michigan will be the first problem to receive the attention of the Experiment station."

CASINO WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY

What is it that football gives a man? The question is answered in "The Great Alone," a west coast production which will be presented at the Casino theater Wednesday and Thursday, and which, while not a story of the gridiron, is the story of a football star to whom the training and the game gave stamina, judgment, valor, restraint and other qualities which made him a man among men when, after his college days, he was entrusted with a secret mission among the trappers and traders of the Canadian fastnesses.

Monroe Salisbury is star of the production and has the role of a youth who carried the traditions of the gridiron into the Canadian wilds.

"THE STORM"

House Peters could play anything, but his forte is roles requiring a single directness and many simplicity. Such is his role in "The Storm," in which he stars at the Riviera theater Wednesday and Thursday. It is the figure of an honest woodsman who is "skipped" or "wrecked" that he portrays, a roughly fellow among men but an absolute coward at a woman's smile. Virginia Valli, Matt Moore, Josef Swickard and others support him.

"GENTLEMAN OF LEISURE"

"A Gentleman of Leisure," starring Jack Holt, is being heartily received at the Riviera. The supporting cast includes Sigrid Holmquist, leading woman; Cassin Ferguson, Alec Francis, Frank Nelson, Alfred Allen, Nadeen Paul and Alice Greenberry. Among the many fine scenes in the production are Waterloo Station, London, Tencock Cafe, N. Y. C., and a luxurious home at Bay Shore on the Sound.

"TRIMMED"

Irrepressible good nature and vigorous enthusiasm is making Hoot Gibson hosts of new friends among the theatergoing public. In "Trimmed," which comes to the Majestic theater today, Gibson's contagious smile is still present. The role of Dale Gaudin, a returned war hero elected sheriff of a small western county, is a typical one for the film star. He can fight, he can ride, he can love; and he does all with a great deal of histrionic skill in his picture.

BIRCHWOOD, Wis.—Indians on the Court d'Oreilles Chippewa Indian reservation, near Birchwood, on Sunday opened the annual harvest festival, which closes on Sunday. Tourists from all parts of northern Wisconsin will be at Reserve during the festival.

DOGS SPREAD TERROR IN MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

NEW LONDON, Conn.—A pack of barking and snapping dogs, led by a large collie and including a western coyote, are at large at Fall Mountain, near Bristol, and causing much terror among the scattered population.

Children are being kept indoors at night and close to their homes during the day. An effort is being made to capture the dogs, which have reverted to a semi-wild state.

Some of the animals are pups of the collie, born after she went into the woods to mother her litter.

COTTAGE OWNERS BAND TO CURB VANDALS' RAIDS

WAUPACA, Wis.—Two hundred and fifty owners of cottages at the Chain O' Lakes have declared war on vandals who in winter season have broken into their summer homes and lugged away furnishings, sometimes in wagon load lots. At a meeting of the resorters, held jointly with the Waupaca City and Commerce association it was decided to employ a detective if necessary to trace down offenders and effect prosecution.

BRIGHT SHOES AND JERSEYS OUT OF VOGUE

Newport Appears in White and a Variety of Yellows

NEWPORT, R. I.—When Milady of Newport goes outdoors in the daytime she wears of her smartest sports clothes. And since Newport, in some degree, may still be regarded as the summer capital of wealth and fashion and a perfect mirror of the English and continental vogue, Milady of Oskosh or Hohokus, N. J., may with confidence follow suit.

Tennis week here is one of the several occasions upon which Newport flaunts herself in a sartorial manner for public inspection. The current week of the racquet game on the beautiful velvet courts of the Casino has seen the traditional outpouring of debutantes, matrons and dowagers, in all the summer glory of raiment. To one who reacts spontaneously to the varied color for the multifarious hues are not displayed. The prevailing notes are white and an infinite variety of yellows, very delicate, very subtle and beautiful as a green field filled with daisies. In other words, the observer is charmed rather than excited, is soothed rather than thrilled.

As for jerseys—if you have any in your wardrobe, dear Miss or Lady, give them to your maids. They are not being worn in the haute monde. Knitted frocks? Lots of them. Knitted dresses with felt hats of the cloche or helmet type. Colored shoes, horrors. Certainly not. My dears. In the few yards and tens that were seen there were slippers and stockings to match, but with colored dresses shoes were always black with the nude silk stockings now so prevalent everywhere.

There are few tailored hats. Most of them are trimmed and are rather large, shading the face. Capes prevail—long white capes fringed with fur collars, and everyone is wearing a hat. Look as I would I saw no bare or bandaged heads.

There are one-piece frocks of georgette or crepe de chine and also a variety of one-piece dresses. One statuesque woman seen at the Casino today was very striking in a white crepe de chine one-piece dress and a very large flowing blue hat. As for veils I saw not more than one or two and they were worn by women of an age which suggested they were being worn rather to conceal the face than to protect a sunken complexion. White hats with white dresses, almost invariably. The blue hat with the white gown, noted above, was very much of an exception. And with the white frocks white shoes, always.

Dowagers in rich matter of capes ran to paisley shawl effects, all silk and very attractive. But the eyes lingered longest upon long knitted silk capes with monkey fur collars. Flat heels are missing. Slippers are very dressy and the heels either military or French. Such jackets as were seen were attractive in their variations of color, very cool and refreshing to contemplate.

Finally I saw but one woman smoking in the stands, and she looked as though she had come in from some interior section of Rhode Island.

Household Suggestions

FLOOR SPOTS

Steel wool will clean the spots on your hardwood floors, or it will smooth down any rough parts.

PAPERING A ROOM

Before papering or whitewashing a room, examine the walls and ceiling and see if there are any dark spots. If so, cover them with a coat of shellac.

CLEANING PILLOWS

To clean pillows, whether of down or feathers, empty the contents of the bag into a bag of cheesecloth or mosquito netting, tie it up tightly and wash in a tub of white soap suds to which a little ammonia has been added.

ALCOHOL ON VARNISH

If alcohol is spilled on varnish, wash with water immediately or pour on oil.

Bending and Kicking Stunts Will Drive Fat from Waist and Hips

HERE'S ONE WAY TO REDUCE HIPS AND WAISTLINE. TRY IT EVERY MORNING.

Or stand on your toes, as high as you possibly can raise yourself, and balance there while you count 10. Then walk on your tiptoes, or walk with your foot flat on the floor, taking a kick with each step.

More Strenuous

Kicking and swinging the legs with a pivot-like motion from the hips spells the ruination of fat cells, but requires considerable effort. Walking about on the hands and knees is very good for the figure, though it must be admitted it is not a graceful exercise.

Of course, you know that in your thirties and forties you have a natural tendency to exercise less, eat more and consequently to become thick about the waist and hips. But you must combat this if you want to look young, and you must be conscientious about your diet and exercise.

I prefer to take these exercises in the morning, and I recommend that you do the same. But if you neglect them in the morning, won't you please do them before you retire?

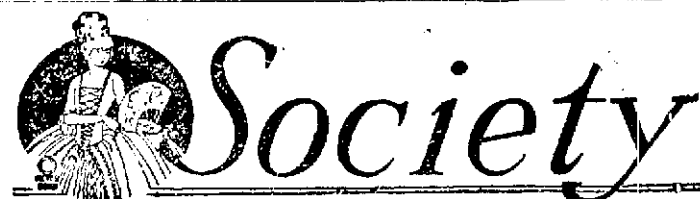

NEXT—Miss Dolan discusses the benefits of relaxation.

Here is one you would do well to master.

Stretch out on a flat surface with the arms stretched out over the head and the feet just escaping the floor or bed. Draw the knees as far over the chest as they will go, at the same time bringing the arms to the sides. Then return to your first position, never letting the feet touch the floor. This will give you absolute control of your waistline and will reduce heavy thighs most effectively.

Lying flat on your back, raise the legs alternately, and then together to a position at right angles with your body.

Jumping up and down on the ball of the foot is a good way to reduce the calf and strengthen the muscles of the foot and ankle.

MARY LOUISE SERVIS BECOMES BRIDE OF VERNON REINHART

OAK LEAVES, white gladioli, palms and cymbalium ferns formed a setting for the taking of the marriage vows Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Lexington hotel at Minneapolis, when Miss Mary Louise Servis, daughter of Mrs. Frederick T. Servis, became the bride of Mr. Vernon A. Reinhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Reinhart.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. William H. Hutton of New London, Wis., was crowned in white satin back crepe, made with a short train that fell from the shoulders. The bodice was finished with baton neck effect and two pearl ornaments held the draperies of the skirt. The tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and the shower bouquet was of bride's roses, lilies of the valley and white sweet peas.

Pink and lavender was the color combination in the gowns of the bride's attendants. Miss Mary Reinhart, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Peggy Mielter, the maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Reinhardt's gown was of lavender crepe, made of bouffant style with three circular bands of silver applique on the skirt as trimming. Her flowers were a shower of pink sweet peas.

Miss Mielter was gowned in pink crepe and lavender in silver and her flowers were lavender sweet peas. Harvey H. McNair, Jr., and Jane McNair, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McNair of St. Paul, the juvenile attendants, carried baskets of pink and lavender blossoms.

Mr. Harvey McNair, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was the best man, and the ushers were Messrs. John Wells of Independence, Kan., formerly of St. Paul, and Frank Hurley of St. Paul. The service was read by the Rev. Robert H. Cotton, assistant rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, in the presence of sixty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart have gone on a motor trip in the east. Mrs. Reinhart's traveling suit was of grey polka dot with blue felt hat trimmed in blue leaves. Upon their return, September 15, Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart will be at home at 1419 West Twenty-seventh street. Among the out of town guests were Mrs. Elsie Gile Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wing, Miss Dorothy Wing and Sherwood Wing of this city, Mrs. John J. Paul and Miss Valentine Paul of Watertown, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Reinhart, parents of the bridegroom, entertained at a bridal dinner at the Minkahda club Friday night in honor of the approaching marriage of their son and the bride.

Mrs. Servis before her marriage was Miss Isabelle Trow of this city and a large number of friends will be interested in the nuptials.

DIET EXPERT HAS NEW IDEA FOR REDUCING
Don't Disappoint Your Stomach, Use Mental Control of Appetite.

BY GEORGE BRITT
CHICAGO.—Dieting at table is no more important than dieting in the mind for fleshy women who would reduce.

That tip was given by Miss Grace Gordon Hood of Lewis Institute as a supplement to her ideas on mental control of the appetite, which she advanced during the recent meeting of the American Home Economics Association here.

"One cannot think of fattening food and obtain successful results from a reduction diet," says Miss Hood. "The will and the mind must come first."

This is the way wrong thinking works out. The plump one has a luncheon menu calling for lettuce, watermelon and ice tea. Throughout the morning, however, she lets her thoughts revel in pictures of juicy beef and chocolate cake.

Her mouth is made up for chocolate cake. Her salivary glands have telegraphed to her gastric juices to watch out for chocolate cake. The message is relayed to the intestinal reception committee.

"Hurrah for chocolate cake," shouts the stomach.

Then descends a consignment of lettuce and ice tea!

"Tgh," groans a disappointed and cheated system. The reception committee controls its demonstration. The party is a frost. Upon repetition every day or every meal, the digestive juices refuse to respond. There is rebellion, and the reduction campaign goes on the rocks.

"The person reducing should start firmly with the will to like non-fattening foods and to banish conscious cravings for the others," says Miss Hood. "Memory, association, imagination, previous experience exert a tremendous influence on appetite. One trying to reduce should work up an interest in reduction foods."

MR. AND MRS. R. A. Donaldson and daughter, Irene, of Melina, Ia., Mrs. Carrie Bueck, Miss Rachael Woolley and Mrs. Anna Donaldson of Des Moines, and Mrs. William Fidler, Mrs. S. A. Holcomb and daughter, Jane, made a recent visit at the home of Mrs. E. Holcomb, 813 Badger street.

PROSECUTOR TAKEN TO TASK BY JUDGE IN ARNOLD TRIAL

District Attorney Reproved by Court for Methods of Examining Witness SUPERIOR, Wis.—District Attorney William H. Dougherty was admonished by Judge C. Z. Luse in federal district court here Tuesday for his manner of examining William D. Tenney, former treasurer and secretary of the Madison Bond company of Wisconsin, which Victor H. Arnold as former president is charged with using in the three alleged schemes to defraud by mail for which he is now on trial.

Defense attorneys had objected to Mr. Dougherty's leading questions constantly throughout the trial of the case, and finally Hal S. Corbett, chief defense attorney, asked the court to admonish the district attorney which was done.

Rickering and side arguments between various defense attorneys and Mr. Dougherty have been frequent throughout the trial.

The defense, throughout the session, was trying to show that when Arnold exchanged $25,000 of old common stock—all of it there was for $350,000 of new common stock and put $150,000 of the new issue in the treasury, he was really obtaining nothing more than ownership of the concern, which he already had and was donating to the treasury $150,000 of his own holdings. The idea appeared to be that no matter how many certificates were issued the actual value behind the company remained unchanged. The prosecution in indirect testimony secured a statement from Tenney to the effect that this watering of the stock resulted in larger payments of interest.

REALTY BOARD TO CHECK ON BUILDING CODE ENFORCEMENT

At a meeting of the La Crosse real estate board Monday night in the office of W. A. Lewis, State Bank building, it was decided to send to Madison for a set of the state's laws of building codes. The board also decided to see to what extent the code is being observed here in the reconstruction of old buildings and the erection of new ones, and to investigate the possibility of drawing up a local code of laws.

A feature of the evening was a spirited debate between H. L. Taylor and Barney Olson as to the advisability of the construction of a wide pavement on Loxey boulevard from the South Salem to the Mormon Conlee road, connecting state highways 21, 23 and 11, which would center at the intersection of Loxey boulevard and Main street, bringing all the incoming and outgoing tourist traffic over the three arterial highways recently laid out. Main, Cass or Jackson streets. Mr. Olson thought the second causeway project should have precedence over the Loxey boulevard plan. Mr. Taylor contended that the latter idea was as much pressing need as the causeway due to the fact that the state highway commission meets here in September and that before that time some definite plan should be drawn up to be presented to the commission.

FLAGSHIP OF U. S. BATTLE FLEET GOES AGROUND IN FOG

SEATTLE, Wash.—The cruiser Seattle, flagship of the United States battleship fleet, went ashore on Marrowstone Point, Puget Sound, in a dense fog early today, according to a radio message received here. The cruiser was not believed to be in any danger, and it was expected she would be floated at high tide.

On board the Seattle were Admiral R. E. Conz, new commander in chief of the fleet of the United States fleet, and Rear Admiral L. H. Gregory, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, of the navy.

LUND AUTO DAMAGE CASE IS APPEALED TO CIRCUIT COURT

Casper Lund, through his attorney, Stanley Gordon, has appealed the judgment of Judge C. W. Hunt, in favor of William Storaand, for damages as a result of a collision between Storaand's and Lund's automobile to circuit court. Judge Hunt awarded Storaand $95.76 damages and court costs. His attorney was Otto Schlabach. The automobiles of Storaand and Lund collided at Mendota street and Copeland avenue, as Storaand was returning from a ball game at Copeland park last May.

MAN OF MYSTERY LIVES ALONE ON ROCKY ISLE

ESHAUT, Finistere, France.—(A. P.)—There is one Frenchman to whom the high cost of living, the precarious existence of the Entente Cordiale and the occupation of the Ruhr mean nothing, and that is Basile de Kervilio, who has found perfect peace and quiet on the island of Keller, the smallest of the group of islands of which Eshaut, 27 miles from Brest, is the largest.

Here M. de Kervilio lives the life of a modern Robinson Crusoe, growing his own vegetables, living on fish from the sea, and in every way supplying his own needs. The inhabitants of Eshaut watch his island for any signal of distress he may make, and occasionally visit him. He has a small library of books and writes a great deal, although no one knows what he writes about, nor will he say. He has been living this lonely life for five years, and declares he has no desire whatever to return to so-called civilization.

PRAIRIE MAN DIES IN FUTILE EFFORT TO RESCUE INFANT

Two Drown While Mother of Baby Is Helpless to Give Aid

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis.—Hermon Kish and his two-year-old nephew were drowned while his sister-in-law, the mother of the dead child, sat helplessly in a motorboat which she was unable to manage, the boat being stranded on the beach. The accident occurred when the child lost its balance and toppled overboard. Kish plunged into the river in a futile attempt to save the child. Soon he too sank out of sight. Both bodies were recovered a short time later.

CITY LOSES SUIT AGAINST THE LEWISES CASE IS APPEALED

The suit of the City of La Crosse against Harry and Sam Lewis to recover $75 damages, the cost of repairing a fire hydrant on Ninth street that had been broken as a result of a collision between the Lewis car, driven by Sam, and Arthur Lee's car, was lost in Judge Hunt's court, where a jury returned a verdict in favor of the Lewises. Lee admitted breaking the hydrant and declared that Sam Lewis ran into him, forcing him on the sidewalk, and against the fire hydrant. Lewis alleges that Lee ran into him and then into the hydrant. City Attorney Swanness brought suit against the Lewises. The jury found in favor of Sam Lewis and the costs of the action, $26.23, were assessed against the city by Judge Hunt. Mr. Swanness has appealed the case to circuit court.

RAILROAD ASSESSED FOR RELOCATION OF HIGHWAY CROSSING

MADISON, Wis.—The Chicago and Northwestern Railway company has been ordered by the Wisconsin railroad commission to pay $5,000 toward the highway relocation project in Monroe county, where its trackage is involved.

The highway is the county trunk line between Kendall and Wilton. Formerly it crossed the railroad twice, the view at each crossing being badly obstructed. Under the relocation scheme the highway will be on the opposite side of the tracks avoiding both crossings.

'ROUND TOWN—

HAVE you ever walked down from the corner of Seventh and Fifth and Main streets and somewhere in that vicinity some devil of mischief was whistling the tune of "My Wild Irish Boy" to the beat of steps in your stride? Can you remember that feeling of consciousness that aroused a murderous desire in your hands to wring the young scamp's neck? The staccato tune seemed to come from somewhere in the neighborhood of Brandenburg and Taylor's Millinery Shop and then it would mysteriously shift to some point opposite Anderson's "Little Shop." Who the unknown warbler of the march crocodile has never been discovered by the victors probably due to the fact that they were often too embarrassed to turn around. Well we wonder who he is, or perhaps, it is?

NATIONAL GUARD HEAD UNDERGOES OPERATION HERE

Adjutant General Ralph Immel Confined to Lutheran Hospital Following Operation

Adjutant General Ralph Immel, head of the Wisconsin National Guard, underwent a serious operation at the Lutheran hospital in this city on last Friday. It was learned Tuesday noon. The operation, performed by Dr. A. Gundersen, was successful and the general is reported to be doing nicely.

General Immel has a telephone at his bedside, and in a conversation with a Tribune reporter Tuesday noon declared that he was feeling as well as could be expected, and that he hoped to be out of the hospital in about ten days.

DICKINSON CANVAS HUNG AT COLUMBUS ART EXHIBITION

Information received a few days ago by C. W. Dickinson states that a picture painted by him a few years ago, now owned by parties in Columbus, Ohio, is now hanging on the walls of the summer exhibit of the Columbus Art association. In accepting the picture for the exhibit, one of the examining committee, in commenting the picture, is reported to have made this statement regarding it: "It is easy to see that this picture was painted from the love of the art; it is not in the same class with pictures that are painted to sell." The painting shows a view of the slope of ground rising from the marsh to the level of Hillview addition in La Crosse, including an oak tree in autumn colors on each side of the curves, standing on the slope, under the branches of which, in the distance, is shown the blue nose of a hill seen in the course beyond the golf links. It was never exhibited in La Crosse.

SWARTHOUT SETTLES DAMAGES FOR CARS HIS AUTO WRECKED

The damage cases resulting from the collision of William Swarthout's high-powered automobile with two automobiles on the South Salem road, in front of Gollnick's place, several months ago, have been settled. Swarthout's auto ran wild when he was seized with a fainting spell while driving the car and crashed into the cars of Gollnick and Joseph Hahn, which were parked at the side of the road. Gollnick's Ford was literally cut in two and Hahn's car was struck a blow that drove it nearly 60 feet along the road. Swarthout bought a new car for Gollnick. In order for Hahn to get Swarthout into court it was necessary for A. E. Bleekman, attorney for Hahn, to have Swarthout arrested and brought into Judge Hunt's court. Swarthout agreed to a settlement after he was arrested.

RUSHFORD SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS AT FIRST FALL MEET

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special)—At the first meeting of the Rushford Board of Education in the new school year, the following officers were elected: President, C. C. Jensen; clerk, E. S. ### FILLMORE COUNTY PIONEER RESIDENT CLAIMED BY DEATH

RUSHFORD, Minn.—(Special)—Hiram Adams, a pioneer resident of this—Fillmore county—recently died at the home of Max Splitzesser of St. Charles, where he had resided for the past three years. He was born in Aurora, N. Y., January 11th, 1841, being the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Enos Adams, whose ancestry dated back to John Quincy Adams, of presidential fame. When Hiram Adams was seventeen years old the family came to Minnesota and settled in Yucatan township, the year being 1858. In 1861 he enlisted in the Civil war and served until the United States army was mustered out. Fifty-five years ago he and his brother-in-law, the late George J. Onstine, built what is now called the Northwestern hotel in Rushford and the two men and Onstine's family managed the place. Adams was also a dealer in horses for several years. His death removes the last of the male line from the Adams family in this section, as he never married. He is survived by three sisters. Funeral services were held at the Rushford Episcopal church and the remains taken to Yucatan, a small county settlement several miles east of Rushford for burial.

WIND DELAYS RACE

NEENAH, Wis.—Because of heavy sea and wind, the Class C yachts in the Inland Yachting association regatta here did not race Tuesday morning. They were scheduled to start at noon and the Class A event will start about 2:30.

RAINBOW GARDEN IS LOOTED BY BOYS OF SMOKES, CANDY

About $25 Worth of Cigarets, Chewing Gum and Candy Stolen by North Side Gang. Rainbow Garden was looted of cigarettes, chewing gum and candy, valued at about $25, Sunday evening, by a gang of seven north side boys, whose ages range from about 10 to 16 years old. The boys were seen coming from the gardens about 7 p. m. by members of the orchestra who were going to the gardens for rehearsal. Tuesday morning, Oscar J. Swanness, attorney for the Rainbow Garden company, had warrants issued for the arrest of the boys. They probably will be rounded up by the sheriff's office Tuesday afternoon and arraigned before County Judge Brindley.

CALEDONIA FARMER SUFFERS A BROKEN ARM IN ACCIDENT

CALEDONIA, Minn.—(Special)—While assisting in hauling grain at his farm one-half mile east of town, M. S. Hurley had the misfortune of breaking his left arm near the wrist. While Mr. Hurley was standing on the wagon the team gave a sudden jump forward, throwing him forcibly to the ground. He was taken to the Caledonia hospital where the fracture was reduced.

KLAN DRY OFFICIAL AT MADISON SHORN OF STAR AND GUN

Special Police Permit Given
K. K. K. Representative
Revoked by Mayor

MADISON, Wis.—The official prohibition enforcer of the Ku Klux Klan in Madison has been deprived of his star, gun and authority to act as a policeman according to Mayor I. Milo Kittleson who asserted on Monday that the special police permit had been revoked.

The mayor declared that he had known the Madison member of the fire department for some time and respected him. He said that the man had said nothing about his affiliations with the Klan when he asked for the permit and the mayor said that he knew nothing about this angle of the case.

The Klan representative has been responsible for about a dozen arrests here on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Mayor Kittleson declared that the man came to him with a prohibition officer and explained that he did not care to go into the enforcement field without special authority. The mayor declared that he had given him temporary police powers. The Klan representative had no other affiliations with the prohibition men than an expressed willingness to show where liquor could be had.

A number of Madison business men had announced that they were going to interview the mayor with a view of having the Klan's special police power revoked previous to the mayor's announcement that this action had already been taken.

The sudden activity of the Klan representative in the prohibition field has been one of the most widely discussed topics in Madison since he was given police power a month ago.

He is a member of Madison's fire department and is well known throughout the city. Although no official announcement has been made it is reported that he has been told to get off the fire department or quit his prohibition activities.

CLERKS OF STATE CIRCUIT COURTS MEET AT BARABOO

BARABOO, Wis.—Clerks of circuit courts from every county in the state are here Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Association of Circuit Court Clerks of Wisconsin, which will continue through Wednesday.

The morning session Tuesday was devoted to convention routine, which was followed by a business session, called to order after the noon recess.

The chief speaker of the afternoon session was Robert E. Coleman of St. Paul, federal naturalization chief for this district, who spoke on naturalization and its effects.

The session was adjourned at 3:30 p. m. and the delegates were taken on a trip around Devil's Lake, which ended at the Baraboo country club, where the annual banquet was served.

Wednesday a business session is scheduled for the morning, and in the afternoon a trip will be taken to Kilmoryn. Election of officers is to be held before the noon adjournment.

POISONED GRASS BLAMED FOR DEATH OF CATTLE

HOLLANDALE, Wis.—A short time ago a chemical sprinkler was sent by the Illinois Central road along the line to kill grass and weeds growing along the track, by means of a poisonous spray. The poisoned grass, it is claimed, caused the death of two valuable cows owned by J. L. McCauley, farmer, near Hollandale. Several other cows were taken sick as a result of the poison, it is believed, but a veterinary was able to save them.

Tortoises are very tenacious of life; one existed for eight months after its brain was removed.

TREMPEALEAU COUNTY HOSPITAL VISITORS' DAY ATTRACTS 1,000

More than 1,000 people from all parts of Trempealeau county were in Whitehall Sunday, the guests of officers and trustees of the Trempealeau county hospital for the insane, at the annual "visitors' day."

Among the speakers on the program were Edward Marchett of Osceola and Senator E. P. Clark of Galesville, both members of the original building committee when the hospital was built 28 years ago. K. S. Knutson, chairman of the county board presided at the meeting. Steiner Hanson of Blair and David Wood of Whitehall, also members of the original committee, were present yesterday, but did not speak.

Dr. D. N. Hidershede of Arcadia, Dr. E. F. Peterson and J. A. Markham of Independence, O. J. Eggum and Judge E. F. Hengel of Whitehall, and the Rev. A. J. Roe of Blair, also addressed the gathering.

After the program of speeches, the visitors were taken through the hospital, and ice cream and lemonade was served.

Music was furnished by the Strum 1st band, the Osceola band, and the Arcadia orchestra. Miss Bessie Lager of Independence and the Rev. Mr. Roe sang several solos.

John McKivergin is the present superintendent of the hospital and Mrs. McKivergin is matron. Trustees are E. M. Smith of Osceola, K. J. Dewey of Arcadia, and A. P. Ofsdal of Erick.

Pedfumes today must be much more skillfully blended than even a few years ago; the crude scents have altogether lost popularity.

COUPLE MARRIED MONDAY NOON AT PRETTY WEDDING

Moretta Lilly of Prospect Park
Becomes Bride of Ed-ward Holz

HOUSTON—Special—A beautiful wedding was solemnized at high noon Monday at the home of the bride in Prospect Park, when Miss Moretta Lilly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lilly was married to Edward Holz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holz of Winona.

The ceremony was performed in the reception room which was artistically decorated with flowers and ferns. Under a large white wedding veil they were pronounced man and wife by the Rev. Mettam of Money Creek.

The bride wore a handsome traveling suit of navy blue and carried a bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Letha Gordon of Winona and David Lilly, brother of the bride, was best man. After the ceremony a dinner was served to a large number of friends.

The bride is a popular young lady and has been active in all social and church doing, also a member of the dramatic club for the past three years, displaying a wonderful talent as an actress.

The groom is a young man of splendid character and is in the employment of railroad at Storbuck, Wash., where they will make their home.

The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holz of Winona, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Johnson of Loony Valley and Miss Letha Gordon of Winona.

RULES INDIAN MAY SUE CANDIDATE WHO DESTROYED BALLOT

MADISON, Wis.—John M. Kelley, district attorney of Oneida County, was advised today that Helen Ackley, an Indian woman, whose vote was destroyed at the Town of Sugar Camp election, April, 1923, may prosecute the person who destroyed her ballot, on a charge of simple assault.

The inquiry to the attorney general came as the result of the Indian woman's question on legal procedure. She had voted at previous elections and never had been challenged. At April election she had procured her ballot, and was standing in line, ready to deliver it into the ballot box, when Sidney Schmidt, according to the information in the hands of the attorney general, took the ballot and destroyed it.

Schmidt was a candidate for reelection as chairman of the town board and was not one of the election inspectors. The attorney general's office finds that "no person, except the inspector of elections shall receive from any voter a ballot which has been prepared for voting."

Mr. Kelley is further informed that Helen Ackley may, through her private attorney bring action against Schmidt on the grounds of simple assault.

Hairs Will Vanish After This Treatment

(Toilet Helps)

You can keep your arms, neck or face free from hair or fuzz by the occasional use of plain delatone and in using it you need have no fear of marrying or injuring the skin. A thick paste is made by mixing some of the powdered delatone with water. They spread on the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and all traces of hair have vanished. Be careful, however, to get real delatone and mix fresh.
